CANBERRA CAMPS 1928

Camps for single construction workers were established near to worksites and out of sight of permanent Canberra. In 1925 three semi-permanent camps were constructed - on the north side White City (now covered with School of Music building), centre on Capital Hill and on the south side of the Molonglo River near the railway station Causeway. At Westlake (Stirling Park) three commonwealth single men's camps were established - No 3 Sewer Camp (1922-1925), Old Tradesmen's Camp (1923 - 1927) and No 1 Labourers' Camp (1924 - 1927). Contractor John Howie had already built his Hostel Camp in 1922. It was removed between May and July 1927. The Burns Club was founded in their Mess Room in 1924. Howie also built timber cottages for his married men.

CAPITOL HILL

This camp was built by Contractor John Howie in 1925. Note the spelling of capitOI. In the 1940s it was changed to capitAl. Around 1947 the camp was enlarged to take the new arrivals from overseas. In December 1928 Mrs Stanley became the Mess Caterer and stayed there until the men out of work could no longer afford to pay her and she in turn could not pay her rent to the Commonwealth.

The group of buildings on the right hand side above the middle line is Capitol Hill Camp around 1929. The buildings in the foreground area are part of Forrest. Today the site of Capitol Hill Camp is covered with the building of Parliament House. In the middle top section of the page would be the area of Glebe Park and the building top left is Albert Hall. The road in front of it is Commonwealth Avenue. The map below shows the site of Capital Hill Hostel in the early 1950s. It was built to the right of the old camp. Also shown on this map is Hillside Hostel built in early 1950s.

ENGINEERS' QUARTERS

Opposite the Power House - originally built circa 1916. One building was moved c1926 to a site near the Railway Station for use as a Friendly Society Hall. In the early 1960s it was again moved - this time to Hovea Street in O'Connor where it now serves as a Scout Hall.

WALKER, John gardener

MUGGA QUARRY

The man with his hand resting on the rock front left is Ermino Cappello who came to Australia from Italy in 1913 and worked on the construction of the Power House. He was a naturalised Australian at the time of the electoral roll but did not enrol.

Below: Tradesmen's Camp at Westlake May 1927. It is in the background behind the Police Camp. The track coming down the hill on the righthand side of the photograph and the road across the hill are still in situ on the hillside now opposite Lotus Bay, Yarralumla.

Just out of sight of this photograph is a ditch that runs diagonally from the area of tent to the Hotel Canberra end. It too is still clearly visible. the timber building on right hand side in background may be a Mess Hall.

RED HILL

The men from No 1 Labourers' Camp at Westlake moved to this camp in 1927. Some had Red Hill, Westlake after their names.

Not on the electoral roll is William Norman Madden who was born on 17th May, 1892 and died on 17th May, 1928. He was 35 years of age and lived at Red Hill Camp. He was the son of Joseph Tyrell and Annie Madden of Wee Waa. He served in the AIF in World War One. His death was the result of an accident. He is buried in St John the Baptist Church Cemetery in Reid ACT. St John's Churchyard by Jean Salisbury

WHITE CITY CAMP.

This camp was built in 1925 on the site now part of the School of Music near Civic. It was named after the white canvas of the tents. In 1926/1927 the tents were replaced by cubicles painted green. Removed around 1931. Bill Mitchell was their last Mess Caterer and like Mrs Stanley also went broke. Bill Convine of Molonglo was the first Mess Caterer.

Below left is a photograph taken around 1926. The man top row second from the right is HLB Lasseter. This photograph was loaned by the Biddles family. Mr Biddle was in Canberra in this camp. He is second from right wearing a cardigan. It is probable that this is the Northbourne Camp. It closed in late 1927. Below is a photograph (detail) of the Men of No 1 Labourers Camp at Westlake - 1924. Loaned by the CDHS.

Below: The Cooks' Tents at No 1, Westlake 1925. This photograph is to be found in Australian Archives and The Canberra Community News (1925).
